NSF-2012 Video & Poster Competition
Coming May 22-25

Check out this year's video and poster competition!

IGERT.ORG WELCOMES YOU TO THE 2012 VIDEO & POSTER COMPETITION

Begin browsing videos & posters • Graduate students from 114 NSF-funded IGERT programs share videos & posters describing their innovative, interdisciplinary research.

We invite you to watch videos, read posters, post to the discussions, and vote for your favorites.

About IGERT

A place for prospective graduate students, prospective PIs, and the public to learn about the IGERT program.

Project Profile

Your Project Profile links to your abstract, website, project members, and all of your project's contributions.

Personal Profile

Your Personal Profile includes your photo, short bio, academic interests, and all of your contributions to the site. The site is personalized to your academic interests, so please update these on your profile page!

Find an IGERT

Find projects that are doing work similar to your own. Search by keyword, university, state, theme, and/or NSF directorate.

Find a Member

Locate potential colleagues and expand your collegial network.

News

Find out what's happening in the IGERT community. Announce conferences of interest.

Showcase

Broadcast the achievements of your IGERT and learn about what other projects are doing.

Library

Submit and browse articles related to interdisciplinary education, abstracts of your published work, and articles of interest to the community.

Webinars

Use the integrated webinar tool to run virtual classes, meetings, and to connect with students doing fieldwork. Check out what other IGERTs are doing by viewing their webinars.

Groups

Collaborate with colleagues both in your own IGERT and across IGERTs via discussion boards, chat, and file sharing functionalities.

Conferences

Links to the IGERT community conference calendar, and to an archive of conferences previously streamed on IGERT.org.

Job Board

Post positions open in your university. IGERT students, alumni and faculty are encouraged to share their resumes to prospective employers.

The IGERT Resource Center (IGERT.org) is an electronic community that enables IGERT students and faculty to share resources, research, presentations, challenges and best practices. IGERT.org also provides stakeholders, prospective students and prospective PIs with comprehensive information about the NSF IGERT program and about each funded project.
